Fernando Wood.

NEW YORK, Feb 15.—The death of Fernando Wood forms the leading topic of newspaper comments. Flags are at half mast on public buildings. Among recollections of his past history are the following: On the discovery of gold in California in 1848 Wood fitted out the bark John W. Carter with a cargo of merchandise for sale to the miners and out of this transaction a trial in the courts followed. The California venture was very successful and Wood felt himself rich enough after it to retire from business which he did, investing a large part of his capital in real estate, which has rapidly increased in value since.

Good Crop Prospects in the West.

ST LOUIS, Feb 15.—In response to inquiries sent to railroad agents throughout the interior wheat crop reports show that so far damage by the late sudden and severe changes in the weather is very slight and only in few localities. The acreage is much larger than last year. The present condition is favorable and prospects fair to good. Reports from Illinois are particularly encouraging, and indicate a large yield and excellent quality.

The War against False Butter.

CHICAGO, Feb 9.—Three grocers whose samples of butter had been analyzed and found to contain from 50 to 80 per cent of hog product were taken before Justice Wallace yesterday afternoon and fined $10 each for a violation of the statutes. The only defense they set up was that they were ignorant of the law. It is quite probable that the butterine and oleomargarine business will be ruined by the vigorous and praiseworthy efforts of the agent appointed by the butter and cheese association to ferret out these cases.

A Novel Decision.

CHICAGO, Feb 15.—G E Gardner of the superior court this morning made a novel decision in the case of Wallace vs Wallace, a partition suit in which Mrs Rapplyer was an interpleader that Mrs R was entitled to the undivided one third of the estate of her deceased father, Jno S Wallace, which is valued at $300,000, on the ground that her father entered into an agreement with her mother prior to Mrs Rapplyer's birth, that though an illegitimate child she should be raised by him precisely as though she had been born in lawful wedlock and with full rights of heritage as the own child of her father.

John W. Young charged with Bigamy.

DENVER, Feb 15.—It will be remembered that some time ago John W Young, son of Brigham, married a Philadelphia lady of high social position, under a pledge of never practicing polygamy. Nearly three years ago Young violated the promise and married Luella Cobb, a very handsome young girl of Salt Lake, scarcely more than sixteen. The first wife immediately separated from him and has been living alone since. It is said that previous to her marriage she secured her dower. Lately Young has been engaged in extensive contracts in Arizona and from there went to St Louis, whence he telegraphed to Luella to meet him in Denver on his way home. Luella arrived in this city Saturday evening, took quarters at the Windsor hotel and Young arrived last night. He was immediately arrested by Charles A Hawley, deputy U S Marshal on telegraphic instruction from the U S marshal at Salt Lake, where he has been indicted for bigamy, supposed at the instance of his first wife. Young was before a U S commissioner this afternoon and gave a bond of $3000.

THE IRISH BILL.

Still Dragging in Committee—Eighty Amendments yet to be Considered.

LONDON, Feb. 15.—The bill for the protection of person and property in Ireland continues to make very slow progress in committee of the house of commons, but so far nearly all amendments tending to limit its scope have been rejected by an overwhelming majority. This was the case last night with amendments to strike out the words "wherever committed," the promoters of which point out that as the bill at present stands a man will be liable to arrest on suspicion of having committed or incited to an offense even in England or the United States and with an amendment providing that a person to be arrested must be in Ireland of his own free will and not have been brought there on some other charge.

Forster during the debate, made the definite statement that mere advice to tenants not to pay rent or only to pay Griffith's valuation would not be deemed ground for arrest but incitement to acts of violence or intimidation would be so regarded. There still remain to be considered about 80 amendments. Irish members are steadily obstructing the progress of the bill in committee. The Times says: Despatch of measures in urgency is not to be easily distinguished from the leisurely movement of ordinary bills in committee.

The Oakland Harbor Matter.

WASHINGTON, Feb 15.—Representative Page to-day moved to strike out the proviso to the Oakland harbor appropriation in the river and harbor bill, on the ground that the question of title to the bed of the estuary had already been settled to the satisfaction of the secretary of war by the elaborate opinion rendered by Attorney-General Devens last summer, which was conclusive as to the right of the United States to make the improvement this being the only way the question could be settled unless the government should choose to authorize some one to bring suit against it. The enactment of the proviso he said, would simply lead to a repetition of what was done last year, and with the same result. His motion was defeated by only three votes and he therefore offered an amendment making the proviso applicable to all other improvements provided for in the bill on the ground that Oakland harbor should not be treated as an exceptional one. This amendment was rejected by 7 majority, and the subject was then dropped. Page's main object in offering the first amendment was to obtain an opportunity of placing the facts upon the record and he accordingly got permission to print the attorney general's opinion as part of his remarks for future reference. He is confident as above intimated that the enactment of the proviso will not delay the use of the appropriation.

Oregon Road Bills.

Senator Grover to-day introduced a bill appropriating $15,000 for the purpose of repairing the military wagon road between Camp Stewart and Fort Klamath and $10,000 for similar repairs between Camp Stewart and Scottsburg, Oregon.

Personal.

Senator elect Miller arrived here this evening.

Thurman and a Supreme Judgeship.

It having been intimated that possibly Senator Thurman's opposition to the confirmation of Stanley Matthews may have been inspired by the hope that he would himself be appointed to the supreme bench, a friend of the senator is authority for the statement that he has declared that he would not accept a supreme court judgeship if it were offered him by either President Hayes or Gen Garfield but that on the contrary he is anxious to retire from public life and be permanently relieved of all its cares and burdens.

Matthews Going Home.

Blaine's Forthcoming Resignation.

Senator Blaine is still confined to his house with rheumatism but is mending rapidly. It is rumored that he is now arranging to leave the senate by resignation next week. This would give the Maine legislature the requisite 10 days notice of an existing vacancy and afford an opportunity to elect Congressman Frye as his successor in time to enable the latter to take his seat very soon after the 4th of March.

Conference Committees.

The conference committee on the naval appropriation bill have compromised the difference in amounts between the houses aggregating about $240,000, about evenly.

The conference committee on the Indian appropriation bill this afternoon reconciled all points of difference except in regard to the house clause abolishing the board of Indian commissioners.

He said that a manifesto would be issued explaining everything that had been done in regard to the funds of the various branches of the league to be published soon after his return to Ireland. It was also intended, he said that immediately after the passage of the coercion bill Irish members of parliament should hold a conference in Dublin. They would then place themselves at the head of the people thus meeting the blow the government is aiming at the organization.

Barry Sullivan, the popular tragedian, is dangerously ill here.

The Lord Lieutenant on Ireland.

DUBLIN, Feb 15.—The lord lieutenant of Ireland speaking at the lord mayor's banquet to-night said though persons receiving indoor relief were fewer than at the same time last year the number receiving outdoor relief was greater. Whether the present calm was the beginning of permanent peace or whether a sharp struggle was before them what had happened was full of grave meaning. It showed that beneath apparent smoothness there was a certain amount of mischief lurking. It was a very serious matter that a comparatively small body of men should have been able to establish such a tremendous influence throughout the country in so short a time.

Bismarck and Turkish Negotiations.

BERLIN, Feb 15.—It is said that the British ambassador to Turkey was instructed to ask Bismarck whether he would consent to take a leading part in negotiations at Constantinople that France and England had already taken unsuccessful initiative. French and British influence at Constantinople was at a very low ebb while the sultan continued to regard Germany as the most disinterested of his advisors. Bismarck readily consented.

At Peace with all the World.

The speech at the opening of the reichstag to-day stated that the empire maintains peaceful and amicable relations with all foreign powers, that its political relations with the great neighboring empires are especially in consonance with the friendship which personally unites the emperor with their rulers. And there is, among European powers, not only complete concurrence with which to maintain peace, but in principle there is no difference of views concerning the essential objects of pending negotiations at Constantinople. The emperor therefore, is confident that an agreement among the powers will succeed in averting even partial disturbances of the peace in Europe or in any case, be able to so restrict them that they will affect neither Germany nor her neighbors. The emperor expressed satisfaction with the financial policy and hopes a favorable result for the treaties of commerce now pending. He denounces the stamp tax, brewing tax and other measures.

The speech from the throne on account of the peaceful tendency of its allusions to foreign affairs has produced a favorable impression. The passage referring to the relations of Germany with neighboring empires is interpreted as an indication of a renewal of intimate relations with Russia.

Senate.

WASHINGTON, Feb 14.

Resolutions adopted with the bill to ...

By Ingalls: calling upon the district commissioners for information as to the damage done to Long Bridge by the flood and whether improving some method can be adopted that will diminish the probability of inundation of the city hereafter.

By Hoar—Directing the secretary to report to the senate rules of admission to the custom house at New York approved by the president May 16, 1879 and Jan 10, 1880, and such statement of proceedings under the same as may show the practical effect of the operation of the rules upon the public service.

By Platt—Instructing the committee on post offices and post roads to inquire whether the practice of the postoffice department in letting contracts for transportation made to persons who though the lowest bidders and therefore do not intend personally to perform such contracts, but make them solely for the purpose of speculation is an infraction of public policy, and if any means can be devised to prevent the same, and report by bill or otherwise.

On motion of Thurman the judiciary committee was empowered to sit during sessions of the senate for the remainder of the session.

The postal appropriation bill was proceeded with the pending motion to table the subsidy amendment being withdrawn, and various propositions to perfect original amendments reported from the committee on postoffices being overruled as not in order. Under rule votes on these propositions ranged as follows: 18 to 13, 14 to 31 and 16 to 24.

An amendment by Morgan to allow steamships to be of steel as well as iron was agreed to on a viva voce vote.

Bayard regarded the doctrine of steamship subsidies which he construed as the taking of public money for private use, as identical with the doctrine of the communists and a violation of democratic usage and doctrine.

Whyte reviewed the history of America during subsidy legislation beginning with the plan proposed by King in 1841, appropriating one million dollars annually for a term of years for foreign mail service, the bill in that instance being covered with the same sugar coating of equitable distribution that is presented at this time. Coming down to the Brazilian experiment he added: We were asked within five years after that disastrous failure to repeat the folly. During ten years up to 1876, in which the government had paid to the Brazil line $1,500,000, our imports were doubled while our exports increased but one eighth. The Pacific Mail furnished another experience that ought not to be forgotten, and he would if he could, draw the veil before the eyes of the American nation and save them from recollection of that scandal that smirched congressmen and excluded a member from the floor of the house. He concluded with a statement that no reason had been given in behalf of Roach in support of the proposition as that gentleman had not undertaken it he was not now making money in the carrying trade or that present facilities in that direction were adequate.

Beck said that he had heard of no complaint that American ocean postal facilities were deficient.

Morgan replied that southern ports have been closed to the United States mails by the policy of the government and the south now asked mail facilities to be extended to her.

Beck replied and went on to argue that the amendment would not have the effect to add a single steamer to the lines now running, but that the million dollars here provided would go to the Pacific Mail and the Brazillian company, with the exception of about 12 per cent, which would be left for other lines to scramble for. He suggested, among other measures of relief that Washington be made exclusively the place of registracy for vessels of foreign carrying trade that a system of American apprenticeship on these vessels be instituted that a contract be made with their owners by which ships may be made part of our navy in a foreign war that they be relieved of local taxation, that consular and pilotage fees be paid by the government and their burdens otherwise lightened.

Bayard asked if Maxey favored free imports to of ship building materials as well as ships already constructed.

Maxey replied that he was a free ship man in the most unqualified way and he would allow ship building materials to be admitted under reasonable tariffs such as would provide a revenue for the government. He then quoted from statistics to show that while the commercial and agricultural growth of the country had been unprecedented during the last thirty years the carrying trade ... [illegible] ... no ... [illegible] ...

... [illegible] ... the ... [illegible] ... United States in the carrying ... $15,000 ... and owners of foreign bottoms and ... [illegible] ...

... [illegible] ...

The committee of the whole then reported the bill to the senate when the amendments were agreed to and the bill passed finally.

Withers from the appropriations committee reported with amendment the deficiency appropriation bill. Calendar.

After debate on the priority of business the census funding bill was taken up and informally laid over as the regular order of business for to-morrow.

The cattle diseases bill was then taken up and five of its sections read when Thurman criticised the machinery to be created by it as cumbersome and complicated.

At this point a message from the house announcing the death of Representative Wood was received and as a mark of respect for the memory of the deceased, the senate adjourned.

A THROUGH EASTERN LINE.

The Union Pacific to Connect their Road with the O. R. & N. Road During the Coming Year.

CHICAGO, Feb 15.—Mr J W Morse general passenger agent of the Union Pacific has just returned from New York, where he and other officials of the road have been perfecting arrangements for the construction of a new line from Granger, Utah a station on the Union Pacific, to Baker City Or where connection is to be made with the Oregon railway now in course of construction to Portland and other points in Oregon. It is the intention of the Union Pacific to get ahead of the Northern Pacific in reaching Oregon points and provide a competing line that it is claimed will be 600 miles shorter to Portland Or taking Chicago as a common point than the Northern Pacific. The new line will start from Granger station and run northwest to connect with the Utah Northern also controlled by the Union Pacific. The Utah Northern might have been used all the way from Ogden to by building the new line from Granger northwest 250 miles in length the route is shortened 150 miles. In the building of this connecting link a tunnel 2010 feet long has to be constructed and work on this has already been commenced. Work on the new line will be commenced at once and it is expected to be ready for business to Baker City in one year.

Another Railroad "Dicker."

While the parties were in New York arrangements were also completed for taking control of the Kansas Central railroad. This road runs from Leavenworth west to Onaga Pottawatomie county, Kansas. The Union Pacific agrees to assume the debt of the line and will at once extend it to Clay centre, where connection is made with the Junction City branch of the Kansas Pacific. The principal object of the Union Pacific in getting control of this road is to prevent it from falling into the hands of rival lines and to cover a territory which has as yet no other railroad facilities.

MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS.

The Philadelphia Election.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb 15.—The vote is heavy for municipal officers. No indications at 1:30 except that Hunter (democrat) for receiver of taxes endorsed by the committee of 100, is undoubtedly elected. The majority is close and the official returns will probably be necessary to determine the result.

A Political Prediction.

[From the Boston Transcript.]

Gen Garfield's cabinet will not as is becoming pretty plain, be composed exclusively of "sweetness and light" nor yet of "the good, the true and the beautiful." But it will have the positive virtue of turning the cold shoulder to those who would give Gen Grant the character of perpetual presidential claimant, and would like to employ the administration to work up a "boom."

Barney in order to avoid testifying in a case pending against him in the courts of this city swore that he was and had been for 4 years past a citizen, resident and house holder of Arizona territory, and not of the state of California. About two years ago he became bondsman on two estates in the probate court and in qualifying swore that he was a resident and house holder of California. In the light of his recent testimony the statements contained in those bonds are claimed to be false, hence his arrest. He was released on bail.

The Coal Mine Fire.

VICTORIA, Feb 15.

The fire at the Cox ... river mine at Nanaimo has burnt through the roof in shaft No 3 and is burning at a fearful rate in the strata above. Owing to the intense heat and dense smoke it is impossible to ascertain the extent of the fire or the direction in which it is traveling. The fire engine however is kept constantly at work day and night, but owing to the peculiar position of the fire the streams can only be sent up among the flames at intervals.

Some incline to the opinion that the fire has struck a "pocket of coal" others that the seam has split and that the fire is now in another seam of coal. Others again favor the idea that it is the strata above the roof that is on fire. It is almost impossible to state the exact nature of the fire, for nearly every person working in the mine has a different opinion from his fellow workmen. One thing is certain the fire is raging and beyond causing a heavy daily expenditure of funds is causing great anxiety to the officers of the company and citizens generally.

CATTLE THIEVES.

Ranging the Mexican Border—Trouble Likely to Result.

TUCSON, Feb 15.—Reliable information has been received from San Pedro river below the border line that the San Simeon thieves are depredating fearfully upon Mexican stockraisers in Sonora. J N Elias, whose lands extend for 30 miles along the line is the greatest sufferer. The people are in terror. There are about 200 of these cattle thieves, mostly from Texas and they are scattered along the border in bands of from ten to twenty and all cooperate. The Mexicans are arming themselves and say that if the U S authorities will not interest themselves in punishing these invaders they will not allow an American to cross the line along the localities of these ranches, as they are unable to distinguish between good and bad Americans. They claim that the depredations of the Apaches were not half so destructive as the work of the cowboys. A prominent Mexican rancher arrived in this city to-day with a view of purchasing 20 stand of arms to defend his property. He stated that if something was not done by the American government to prevent these American marauders from invading their homes, that serious complications must arise. It appears that these cattle thieves are largely made up of the same bands which have given so much trouble on the Rio Grande for years past. Cattle men of southeastern Arizona are also losing much stock from the same source. The Apaches are still hovering along the borders of New Mexico and Chihuahua. A man by the name of McMurry was driven from his ranch by a band of about thirty last Sunday.

VANCOUVER NOTES.

[OCCASIONAL CORRESPONDENT.]

VANCOUVER, Feb 15.

One of the fashionable hops of the garrison came off recently and another grand time by way of a reception will take place this week in the new theater building.

The department of the Columbia under command of Maj Gen Frank Wheaton, is holding itself in splendid condition and ready for any fighting business that may come along this summer.

Col Alexander Chambers of the 21st infantry who has been in command of Fort Lapwai since General Morrow took command of the 21st infantry has arrived at the garrison. He was ordered sometime since to assume command of the 21st infantry and Vancouver garrison in the absence of General Morrow. Owing to the storm in the upper country he has been unable to take command until within a few days. Col Chambers is a very popular officer among all who know him and it is hoped he will remain here as long as the regiment does.

THE FAMOUS OPERA SINGERS.

Annie Louise Carey and Clara Louise Kellogg are beyond question the most famous opera singers of modern times. In fact they have been acknowledged to be the leaders of their profession, as well as ladies of large experience and particularly good taste. They have probably traveled more extensively than any ladies on the stage, and, as a consequence, have had excellent opportunities of judging of the merits of different countries and their productions. It certainly is very great credit to California and the balmy semi-tropical climate of the Pacific to have had them pronounce Slaven's Yosemite Cologne by far the best they have ever used in any country. BRILLIANT BILLIARDS.

A Closely Contested Match between Jacob Schaffer and Wm. Sexton, in which Schaffer Wins.

NEW YORK, Feb 15.—Probably the finest game of billiards ever played took place this evening at Cooper Institute between Jacob Schaffer and Wm. Sexton for a stake of $1000 and gate money. Number of points 600. All shots according to the terms of the match, were cushion caroms. Referee Dudley Kavanagh. Bob M Morris umpire for Schaffer and Joe Dion for Sexton. Sexton was the favorite in betting. He won the lead and counted ... Schaffer followed with a blank. Sexton followed with ... Schaffer by a brilliant shot gathered the balls and added 13 to his score.

At the end of the 25th inning Schaffer stood 100 and Sexton 62.

In the 50th inning Sexton passed his opponent's score. Sexton 211 Schaffer 203.

In the 57th inning Sexton had 302 Schaffer 265.

At the beginning of the 66th inning Sexton stood 314 Schaffer 294 ... end Sexton and 315 Schaffer 314. The excitement was intense. Sexton kept going ahead and when the marker called "Schaffer 357, Sexton 460," every one thought the game decided. Sexton then ran 19 making his figure 592. Schaffer made 23 and missed. Sexton then counted 1 and Schaffer 3. The score now stood: Sexton 593, Schaffer 585. It was Sexton's play. He counted 1, making 596. Schaffer needed 15 points to win. By a brilliant play he counted one by one until he had made 14. The balls were now in the upper left hand corner of the table. Schaffer needed but one to make the game. Several round the table shots followed by both contestants, both missing until at length Schaffer won by a magnificent cushion shot.

Time of game 2 hours and 19 minutes. Number of innings, 134. Winner's average $44.1 ... Loser's average 4.51. Best runs: Schaffer 29, 21, 20. Sexton 31, 18, 16.

Was it second sight or prophecy that led the Irish agent of the duke of Devonshire to write ten years ago from Tipperary:

The tenants of Ireland have still one tremendous move in their power. That is to stay quietly at home and pay no rent. I believe that if they united by adopting a policy of passive resistance—which I do not see how it would be possible for the landlords to combat—it would lead to one of the greatest revolutions ever known. I do not say that this will come, but it is certainly on the cards.

SOUTHERN DEMOCRACY.

It Considers the Northern Democracy as an "Incumbrance," and Talks of Setting Up for Itself.

[From the New Orleans Democrat.]

We observe that the fiery orator Mr Bragg, of Wisconsin, has again seized the opportunity to traduce and blackguard the south. Bragg is a democrat from Wisconsin and occupies a seat in the house of representatives at Washington. A year ago he distinguished himself by a speech of similar import and then laid the foundation for the cultivation of an illustrious jackass upon which foundation he has since reared an imposing and substantial monument. Bragg is now reported as having created a marked sensation and won the hearty applause of the republicans by accusing southern men of keeping open sectional strife by continually rattling at the treasury doors with war claims. Of course Bragg is a blatant demagogue but the important fact remains that he is also a democrat and as this is the second time that he has seen fit to promulgate these sweeping denials with reference to southern men it becomes proper to inquire whether Bragg may be supposed to represent his party at the north. It seems to us that Mr Bragg is ashamed of his southern allies. The inference appears to be unavoidable that Mr Bragg and his confreres at the north regard us as disreputable associates whom they feel called upon to disown in public. Let us there dismiss the issue as to the truth or falsehood of Bragg's accusations and look only at the fact that he takes so many occasions to repudiate us. Let us put the question squarely to him and his colleagues whether they would like to break up the alliance altogether. We have four years before us in which to consider the matter. Owing to the stupidity mismanagement and cowardice of Mr Bragg's northern friends the democratic party lost its victory in 1876. Owing to similar causes it has just suffered another overwhelming defeat. We of the south have the entire interval between 1880 and 1884 in which to prepare a new policy and cement new alliances. If Mr Bragg and his friends are ashamed of us let them speak out more plainly. They need not fear to hurt our feelings. They cannot be more ashamed of us than we are ashamed of and disgusted with them. They need only make the oldest of overtures in order to secure our unanimous and enthusiastic consent to a separation. The northern democracy have never been other than a load and a drawback to the south. We have given them all the power they ever had in congress or in the nation. At home they occupy an inferior station politically socially and morally, and the bulk of the respectability and strength of the democratic party at large has always resided in the south. Without the south the democratic party would be an unconsidered rifle ranking with the greenbackers or the prohibitionists in strength and influence. Yet it is a noteworthy fact that the most stubborn opposition to all measures for the south's material benefit has emanated from the northern democracy and that in instances other than that of Bragg individuals have found it to their taste to revile and rebuke and repudiate us. All we have to say is that if Bragg has any considerable following in the northern democracy and if the circumstance can be made clear to us the south is quite willing to end the party of its adherence. The northern democracy has never been anything but an encumbrance—and a very distasteful one of late and we shall not go into mourning if we lose it. Let these gentlemen express themselves without hesitation or delicacy—supposing them to have any,—and we promise them that the south or a very respectable part of that east will lead them a cordial cooperation in securing a realization of their desires. This is cold business with us.

The "Commercial Method."

[Atlanta Constitution (Dem), Jan ...]

Our relations to the public have impressed us with the fact that the people of Georgia—and of the south for the matter of that—are heartily tired of the old sectional feuds and controversies that have been kept alive since the reconstruction period by the impracticables of both sections. In fine the people are in favor of what some of our protesting friends sarcastically call the commercial method in politics, for politics that do not bear an intimate and definite and an unmistakable relation to the commercial and business interest of the country to the prosperity and development of the state, the section and the republic—are worth neither consideration nor thought.

Catarrhal POISON

Wei De Meyer's Treatise on Catarrh, explains the following important facts:

1. That Catarrhal Colds become a poisonous infection, at first local, and finally constitutional.

2. That, being Constitutional the infection is beyond the reach of mere local remedies.

3. That impurities in the nostrils are necessarily swallowed into the stomach and inhaled into the lungs, thus poisoning the Digestive, Respiratory and Genito-urinary organs.

4. That Catarrhal virus follows the mucous membrane and causes Deafness, Dyspepsia, Chronic Diarrhœa, Bronchitis, Leucorrhœa, and Consumption.

5. That Smokes, Douches, Inhalations, and Insoluble Snuffs, cannot possibly remove infectious inflammation from the organs named.

6. That an antidote for Catarrh must possess an inoculative affinity for, and the quality of being absorbed by, the purulent mucous wherever located.

Based upon these plain theories, Dr. Wei De Meyer's Catarrh Cure has proved to be infallible. It not only relieves, it cures Catarrh at any stage. Home testimony:

THE ROOT OF THE IRISH TROUBLES.

Mr. William Lecky, an English writer of the present time, who had already gained a high reputation from his "History of Rationalism" and "History of European Morals," has much augmented it by his latest work, entitled "A History of England in the Eighteenth Century." We refer to the book at this time because of the clear exposition given in its chapters on Ireland of the causes, reaching back over many centuries, that underlie the present Irish question. Mr. Froude had written on the same subject, but his book, "The English in Ireland," is intended to collect and aggravate everything that can be said against the Irish people; and accordingly the atrocities on the English side are reduced to the smallest proportions, and English oppression, cruelty and pillage are systematically concealed or openly justified. Mr. Lecky treats the subject in a juster spirit. Through three or four hundred pages he follows the entanglements of Irish history, clearing it of the contradictions of partisan writers on both sides and producing in outline a picture of remarkable clearness. He considers it a misfortune that Ireland never passed, like the rest of Europe, under the subjection of the Romans, who bequeathed, wherever they ruled, the elements of Latin civilization, and also those habits of national organization in which they were pre-eminent. And certainly it was a fatal calamity to Ireland that the Norman conquest, which in England was effected completely and finally by a single battle, was in Ireland protracted over no less than four hundred years. English rule was indeed planted in early times in Ireland, but it was confined to narrow limits; and, as a hostile power in the heart of the nation, it destroyed all possibility of central home government, while it was itself incapable of fulfilling that function. Like a spear-point embedded in a living body, it influenced all around it and deranged every vital function. It is clear from historical evidence that even in those early days they who had the government of Ireland under the crown of England intended to make perpetual separation and enmity between the English and Irish, in order that the former might root out the latter and possess the soil for themselves. This is the key to the history of English effort in Ireland from Henry II to Cromwell,—and even later than Cromwell. The complete ascendency of the English dates only from the great wars and atrocities of Elizabeth's reign. The suppression of the native race was carried on during this period with a ferocity which surpassed that of Alva in the Netherlands, and has hardly been exceeded by any page in the blood-stained annals of the Turks. The pictures of the condition of Ireland at this time may indeed be called as terrible as anything in human history, unless indeed they be surpassed in horror by those of the same country under Cromwell. The object of the English was nothing less than the extirpation of the Irish race. The sword was not found sufficiently expeditious, and another method still more efficacious was employed. Year after year, over a great part of Ireland, all means of subsistence were destroyed, no quarter was given to prisoners who surrendered, and the whole population was skillfully and steadily starved to death. It needs the widest stretch of historic charity—it needs the fullest realization of the manner in which, in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries, men were accustomed to look upon races they regarded as inferior—to judge this history with equity or moderation. But it is easy to imagine what feelings such a horrible policy must have planted in the minds of the survivors and their descendants, and what a tone of ferocity it must have given to the intercourse of the two races. No wonder that hatred persists, lingers, has become inveterate and seems ineradicable. The wonder would be if it were otherwise.

English ascendency brought with it two new and lasting consequences, namely, proscription of the Irish religion and confiscation of the Irish soil. By the legislation of Elizabeth the act of uniformity was established in Ireland; all religious worship except the Anglican was made illegal, and all persons absent from the established worship on Sundays, without sufficient excuse, were heavily fined; all ecclesiastics and other officials were obliged to take the oath of supremacy; and in all the towns and more wealthy districts the churches and their revenues were taken from the Catholics, and the benefices were filled with adventurers without religious zeal, and in many cases without common morality. But as the fruit of persecution is always a more steady adherence to the proscribed faith, the Irish as a rule only became more steadfast. The cause of nationality contributed powerfully to the support of the faith, and all Catholic alliances against England were naturally and eagerly embraced. But every effort of this kind only made English rule more severe. The prodigious intellectual activity that followed the discovery of America, and the eager spirit of enterprise that attended it, were displayed not only in the form of maritime adventure and freebooting throughout the world, but also in the passion for Irish land. There were chronic disturbances between the English government and the Irish chiefs, who were in reality independent sovereigns; and these disturbances were made the pretext for gigantic confiscations. As the hunger for land became more intense, and the number of English adventurers increased, other methods were employed. A race of discoverers were called into existence, who scrutinized the titles of Irish chiefs with all the severity of English law, and who obtained confessions by suborning or intimidating juries, or on the ground of technical flaws. Burke, in one of his great works, has some passing remarks on this subject, which he presents with his usual clearness. He says: "The original scheme was never deviated from for a single hour. Unheard of confiscations were made, upon grounds of plots and conspiracies never proved. The war of chicane succeeded to the war of arms and of hostile statutes, and a regular series of operations was carried on both in the courts and by special commissions and inquisitions: first, under pretence of tenures, and then of titles in the crown, for the total extirpation of the interests of the natives in their own soil—until this species of subtle ravage being carried to the last excess of oppression and insolence under Lord Strafford, it kindled the flames of that rebellion which broke out in 1641. By the issue of that war, by the turn which Lord Clarendon gave to things at the restoration, and by the total reduction of the kingdom of Ireland in 1691, the ruin of the native Irish, and in a great measure too of the first races of the English, was completely accomplished."

By the ascendency of the Puritan party the evils to which Ireland was subjected were immensely aggravated. That party was inspired by the fiercest fanaticism against "popery." It proposed nothing less than to root the Catholic faith out of Ireland utterly; and in this spirit it proceeded to deal with the insurrection of 1641. In the struggle that ensued, rage, fear, hatred, and all the motives of religious and agrarian animosity, were combined. The details are horrible, almost or quite beyond anything else in history. The rebellion which had been provoked by hideous outrages, Cromwell finally put down by outrages of a still more hideous character. His acts deserve to rank with the most atrocious exploits of Tilly or Wallenstein; and the name of Cromwell even now acts as a spell upon the Irish mind, and has a powerful living influence in sustaining the hatred both of England and of Protestantism. The "settlement" that followed this conquest completed the ruin of Ireland. Out of a population of 1,466,000, 616,000 had perished in eleven years by the sword, or by famine artificially produced; and above all, the great end at which English adventurers had been aiming from the first was accomplished. All, or nearly all, the land in the three richest provinces was confiscated and divided among those adventurers who had lent money to the parliament, or among the Puritan soldiers, whose pay was greatly in arrears. The remains of the Irish race were driven from the country, sold into slavery or cooped up in Connaught, a province which rock and morass have doomed to perpetual poverty. Only the ploughmen and laborers who were necessary for the cultivation of the soil were allowed to remain.

This brief survey gives us a picture of the origin of the present difficulties in Ireland. We have now the logic for the existence of the Irish land league.

That Ireland has held and still holds so tenaciously to the Catholic faith has often been remarked as strange; but who on considering this history can wonder at it? Foreign oppression has made that church the symbol and synonym of Irish patriotism and nationality. To quote from another eminent contemporaneous writer—Justin McCarthy, "History of Our Own times,"—"Centuries of the cruel, futile attempt to force another religion on him in the name of his English conquerors had made the Irishman regard any effort to change his faith, even by argument, as the attempt of a spy to persuade a soldier to forsake his flag. To abandon the Catholic church was, for him, not merely to renounce his religion, but to betray his country." This most powerful factor in Irish history can not be overlooked by any one who would arrive at a true estimate of the state of feeling throughout the country.

In his "Chartism," published in 1840, Carlyle wrote: "We English pay, even now, the bitter smart of long centuries of injustice to our neighbor island. Injustice, doubt it not, abounds; or Ireland would not be miserable. The earth is good, bountifully sends food and increase, if man's unwisdom did not intervene and forbid. Violent men there have been, and merciful; unjust rulers and just; conflicting in a great element of violence these five wild centuries now; and the violent and unjust have carried it and we are come to this. England is guilty towards Ireland, and reaps at last, in full measure, the fruit of full fifteen generation of wrong doing."

SECRETARY SHERMAN AND THE REFUNDING BILL.

Recent unofficial statements by Secretary Sherman, particularly his speech to the Merchants club of Boston, indicate his opinion that short term three per cent. bonds cannot be made available at the present time. The changes in the financial conditions of the past two or three months have worked a change in the secretary's opinion, for he was hopeful at one time that three per cent. securities could be placed on the market at par. It is fair to say, however, that the conditions under which he was willing to try the experiment were very different from those which have been imposed by the house bill. His theory was that a portion of the maturing bonds could be refunded into short time treasury certificates, and the remainder into long time bonds; an arrangement which was designed to offer to surplus capital the attraction of a call loan, which is generally made at a rate of interest lower than the prevailing rate, and to trust-funds the advantages of an investment for a long term. The bill passed by the house, however, completely ignores both these considerations, as the certificates provided for may run ten years, and the bonds cannot run longer than that term. Hence the house scheme will accommodate neither of the two classes of funds which would be likely to invest in securities bearing the lowest rate of interest. Even with his partial endorsement of the proposed three per cent. measure, Mr. Sherman was prudent enough to guard against the possibility of failure of an arbitrary attempt by suggesting that certain discretion as to time and rate of interest be allowed the secretary. This suggestion was also ignored. The conditions to-day are not the same as those, which a few months ago, suggested to Secretary Sherman the feasibility of a three per cent. loan. The money market has tightened considerably as compared with that time. The enormous rise in stocks has absorbed a good share of the floating capital. New enterprises have provided employment for considerable money and confidence has increased to an extent which induces men to risk their money in business and speculation. Hence it is doubtful now, whether a three per cent. loan could be negotiated at par even under the more favorable terms proposed some time since by Secretary Sherman; there is scarcely a doubt that the scheme agreed upon in the house of representatives will be a flat failure, if it be attempted. Secretary Sherman's Boston speech holds out the prospect that the rate of interest will be increased to 3½ per cent. before the bill shall be finally adopted. "I believe," he said, "that the good sense of congress will conclude that it is best to offer a bond bearing three and a half per cent. and kept within short periods of redemption, maintain the sinking fund, and, perhaps, apply the greater amount of surplus revenue to their payment." It is unlikely that Secretary Sherman would have expressed himself in this fashion unless he had some reason to believe that he was actually outlining the probable outcome of the refunding project. Otherwise, he would have been more disposed to arouse the sentiment of Boston to the danger of a failure to refund under the probable action of congress. One thing is certain: the rapid debt payers cannot hope to attain refunding at the lowest rate of interest, one or the other of the two considerations must be sacrificed.

THE SUBSIDY SYSTEM.

The senate has rejected the bill for subsidies from the treasury for ocean steamship lines to foreign countries. An outline of the debate on the subject is reported in the congressional proceedings. It seems to us that rejection of the proposition is sound in principle. There would appear to be no good reason why one interest should be fostered at the expense of the public treasury more than another. Private enterprise ought to do these things. The system of paternalism in government is open to many objections. Besides, there is one simple way to establish our merchant marine. It is to abolish our antiquated navigation laws and admit foreign-built ships to American registry. Inasmuch as we can't build ships in competition with Great Britain, why not buy them of Great Britain and make what we can by sailing them? We ought to buy foreign ships as we buy foreign sugar, or any other commodity that we do not produce in sufficient quantity within ourselves. The owners of a few small shipyards would complain. So do the Louisiana sugar planters. But the national interests are above all these special or local interests. We see no reason why government should pay money for sailing ships any more than for raising wheat. All the help that any one interest gets under the subsidy system is at the expense of some other interest. Government exceeds its just powers when it takes money from a profitable industry to feed an unprofitable one.

Dr. J. C. Hawthorne is dead. He had been a prominent citizen of the state, performing a large public trust, for many years. He was held in general esteem for probity of conduct, benevolence of disposition and suavity of manners; and though his public position sometimes brought him under criticism, he had no enemies, and was always credited with having performed his trust well. Such a man will be missed. His death makes a vacancy among us. The suddenness of the event is a surprise and shock, which will be generally felt. He was so widely known and so universally esteemed that none will read the announcement of his death without regret.

The nomination of Stanley Matthews has not been well received by the independent and republican newspapers of the country. Among the journals who have opposed the confirmation of Mr. Matthews are the following: Boston Journal, Springfield Republican, New York Times, New York Post, New York Mail, New York Herald, Philadelphia Bulletin, Philadelphia Times Philadelphia Press, Detroit Post, Buffalo Commercial.

The whirligig of time brings round its changes. When the twenty-third Ohio volunteers went to the war, W. S. Rosecrans was colonel, Stanley Matthews lieutenant and Rutherford B. Hayes major of the regiment.

MARRIED.

In Lone Rock, Jan. 5th, by J. P. Fenton, J. P., Louis F. Carothers of Grant county, and Mary E. Fisher of Wasco county, Oregon.

"BOSS OF THE ROAD" OVERALLS, IMPROVED.

The unparalleled popularity of the "Boss of the Road" Overalls has induced several manufacturers to imitate them with an inferior class of work.

To protect our customers from such imposition, to place an Overall on the market which shall SURPASS all others in strength, while as elegant in cut as the most fastidious could desire, and, above all, to furnish an article AS CHEAP AS THE CHEAPEST, we determined to improve them by the addition of our

PATENTED CONTINUOUS FLY,

Heretofore only used in Standard make of Overalls. With this valuable improvement we guarantee our "Boss of the Road" Overall as the BEST and MOST SERVICEABLE ARTICLE, at the price, to be had in the United States.

Manufacturers and Dealers are specially cautioned against infringement on letters patent covering the Continuous Fly.

Ask your dealer for the "Boss of the Road" Overall; insist on getting it, and take none other.

WEATHER PROBABILITIES

SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN

WASHINGTON Feb 15—12 M—For the coast partly cloudy with occasional rain

CITY.

CHINESE LEPERS.—The grand jury of the state circuit court in their report last Saturday made reference to the existence in this county of leprosy and of the keeping of five Chinese lepers on the poor farm. They condemned the manner in which these unfortunate persons are kept and recommend their removal from the state, calling at the same time the attention of the county judge and commissioners to the matter. We learn that the proper authorities propose to take some action as soon as ... sails from this port direct for China ... for these lepers will be procured ... been back to the flowery land. Should ... be effected we venture ... that every man, woman and child ... will wish them bon voyage.

... JUDGE.—A ... the strict honesty of ... He was a passenger ... from this city to Salem ... consideration ... the conductor with the ... not willing to be ... rightful ... called the ... his attention ... three miles from ... hundred mile ... of his fellow passengers.

WAREHOUSEMEN'S MEETING.—Last evening a meeting of ... men of the Willamette and ... was held with closed doors in the ... for the purpose of discussing the wheat transportation ... pursue in the matter of building ... eight warehouses were represented ... letters from warehousemen ... promising cooperation in the movement. A ... committees were appointed to arrange ... meeting to be held in Salem March 2d.

DR LINDSLEY'S LECTURE.—A large and very intelligent and appreciative audience was present last evening at the First Congregational church on the occasion of the third lecture delivered there by Rev Dr A L Lindsley. As announced his subject was "Discussion of the Theory of Evolution." The subject was handled with the reverend gentleman's usual eloquence and logic. Throughout the lecture was listened to with marked attention. A duet, "Robin Rough," was rendered by two male voices before the lecture.

SPECIAL BOAT.—Friends wishing to attend the funeral of Miss Frankie E Holmes will be conveyed to and from Oregon city on the steamer Welcome leaving Ash street wharf, Portland, at 8 A M Thursday Feb 17th and returning after the funeral. Those who wish to take their carriages from Portland can have them transported to Oregon City and back on the steamer Welcome.

CHURCH ENTERTAINMENT.—Next Friday evening a musical and literary entertainment will be given at the Congregational church for the benefit of the Sunday school library. An excellent programme has been prepared which will be found in our advertising columns.

PORTLAND R A CHAPTER.—A special convocation of Portland R A chapter No 3 will be held this (Wednesday) evening at 7½ o'clock. Work in the R A degree. Members and sojourning companions are ... invited to be present.

LECTURE THIS EVENING.—Miss Helen F Spaulding gives the fifth lecture of the course in the Unitarian chapel this evening. Theme: The Care of ... Choice music will precede and follow the lecture.

AMUSEMENTS.

DR CLYDE.—A large and it is scarcely necessary to add enthusiastic audience was present last evening to witness the second presentation of Dr Clyde. Humor broad unctuous but none the less keen and enjoyable and true pathos blend harmoniously in the play. Of course there is a most decided preponderance of the humorous element as interpreted by that monarch of comedy John E Owens and his very excellent efficient company the piece can not possibly fail to more than please even the ... most critical audience. From the time the curtain rises on the first scene until the play closes the audience is kept in a state of pleasant excitement varying from a light rippling laugh to shouts and roars. Some of the scenes as personated by the inimitable Owens were irresistibly mirth provoking.

The piece ran very smoothly. There were no noticeable delays or hitches. In the humorous character of Higgins the alleged factotum of Dr Clyde ... Owens is exceedingly funny. The entire support without an exception was prompt and all that an exacting taste could demand. We cannot refrain from complimentary allusion to Miss Fanny Young as Margaret, Miss Annie Adams as Emily Clyde, Miss Cobb as ... and Mr Joseph Arthur as "Mr Mecker." The latter gentleman in the scene where he appears intoxicated is so funny that he was accorded a hearty call before the curtain.

OUR BOYS.—This evening Byron's great comedy Our Boys will be produced with the following admirable cast:

Perkyn Middlewick (the butterman)		John E Owens
Sir Geoffry Champneys (baronet)		Mr Jos Arthur
Talbot Champneys	Our boys	Mr Wm Simms
Charles Middlewick		Mr L Be...
Kempster		Mr Chas Mathews
Poddles		Mr Logan Paul
Mary Melrose	Our girls	Miss Annie Adams
Violet Melrose		Miss Lottie Cobb
Clarissa Champneys		Miss J Howard
Belinda		Miss Fanny Young

On Friday the 25th inst the Portland Turn Verein will give their annual masquerade ball at Turn Hall. It is the purpose of the society to make it one of the most brilliant and best arranged masquerade balls of the season. Special care has been taken this year in selecting an experienced committee of arrangements. Every year and at every masquerade ball you will see one and the same costumes as well as tableaux of which spectators are getting tired of but this year the Portland Turn Verein will produce something new to the eye of their patrons. Those who desire a pleasant evening's entertainment will do well to attend this ball for we all know it takes the Turners to give a success. ... satisfactory masquerade. Fine prizes have been selected which will be on exhibition in a few days. Six beautiful tableaux will be presented during the evening. Full particulars later.

UNPLEASANTLY COLD

And Growing Colder Steadily.—Fine Prospects for another Ice Blockade.

That abominable east wind has broken loose again and sent the thermometer down four or five degrees below freezing point. The wind was in the east all day and at midnight showed no signs of moderating. The lines beyond Rooster Rock went down at noon yesterday and we are without late reports. Morning telegrams indicate that the upper river will be soon closed against navigation. The temperature at Rooster Rock was three degrees lower at noon than at 8:30 A M and still lower in the evening. Capt Wolf of the Wide West reports that ice was forming in the eddies below the Cascades as he came down yesterday afternoon and that a very strong east wind prevailed. Through connection was made yesterday and the Cascades boat will start as usual this morning. Following are the

DEATH OF MISS FRANKIE E. HOLMES

The notice that appears elsewhere of the death of Miss Frankie Holmes will be read with genuine sorrow. She was the second daughter of the late W L Holmes one of the oldest and most respected citizens of Oregon, and the grief occasioned by her death is if possible intensified by the fact that it was preceded a short time since by that of her father and a much loved brother. She had been suffering for weeks with typhoid fever, and the violence of the attack finally subsided leaving her in a state of extreme exhaustion from which it was impossible for her to rally. For days her life had hung upon a slender thread and at 1:15 yesterday afternoon she ceased to breathe.

Miss Holmes was a lady of rare accomplishments good intelligence and much amiability of character. She had spent most of the years of her life in the lovely rural home that witnessed its peaceful close and during all these years she was the center of a circle of devoted and admiring friends. Her death though not wholly unexpected will be a sorrowful stroke to the many who have rejoiced in her acquaintance while upon her sorely bereaved mother and sisters it falls with a force that is appalling. Human sympathy stands mute in the presence of a sorrow so inexpressible and overwhelming.

The funeral will take place from the residence of her mother at Rose Farm ... a half mile east of Oregon City on Thursday at 11 o'clock A M.

His first wife died in this city in 1861. He was married to his surviving companion in 1867. Two daughters both living, are the fruit of his second marriage.

For a number of years past and reaching up to the time of his death Dr Hawthorne was a consistent exemplary member of the Protestant Episcopal church holding his membership at St David's church East Portland. Dr ... belonged to the ... fraternity and was a member of Washington Lodge No 46 of East Portland. Deceased served one term as mayor of East Portland. He has been and was at the time of his death a member of the well known firm of Newbury, Hawthorne & Co.

The funeral will take place to-morrow (Thursday) from the residence of the family.

The entire state loses an exemplary consistent and public spirited citizen in the death of Dr Hawthorne. Few men in the state were better known or more sincerely esteemed. For the past ... years he has been a resident of this county. During that long period he has been prominent in public affairs winning friends by his social qualities and generous impulses. Deceased was generally known in the relation in which he stood to the wards of the state who are regarded as the most unfortunate of the human race. In that relation he was considered as the most eminently qualified man in the state in knowledge and experience. The inmates of the institution under his charge who have any lucid intervals always greeted him at such times as a child would greet a father and doubtless many of them will grieve to learn that they are no more to enjoy his kindly presence or feel the soothing influence of his kindly nature. In their relations to and treatment of suffering humanity few men show more of pity and kindness than Dr Hawthorne and when the earthly light faded from his eyes and death claimed him a noble heart, a generous soul, and one of God's best works and noblest man passed to the great unknown.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, FEB. 16. 1881.

BEHIND THE SCENES.

Christmas has come—the cheery time!
And Christmas never comes too soon.
It brings the pageant pantomime,
The merry clown and pantaloon.

Behind the scenes! Ah, what a change
From all the front-view glow and glitter!
Strained canvas is the mountain range,
The god of day's a coarse glaziter.
With tin he rolls the thunder loud;
The monarch's throne a prompter screens;
The king himself, though princely proud,
Chats affably behind the scenes.

Friend Bardolph casts away his nose;
Malvolio lays aside his swagger;
While Tragedy laughs out and throws
To blithe Burlesque her bowl and dagger.
Fat Falstaff flings his stuffing off;
The supers strut like embryo Keans;
Good-humor turns to snarl and scoff;
Folks change their moods behind the scenes.

Upon the stage and off 'tis so;
This fabled tale de te narratur.
Each man act in the social show;
The Truth's full revelation's later.
We play our parts, we strut one hour;
Small space for plaudits intervenes;
Then, summoned by Supernal Power,
We pass indeed behind the scenes.

PERSONAL AND GENERAL.

London papers say that "Swinburne eats opium and cannot live long." London papers occasionally have some very interesting items in them.

The Scientific American says that quail are poisonous when the ground is covered with snow. They are also very poisonous to a $10 bill when eaten with toast and a Boston girl.

The last words of the great Emanuel Kant were, "It is enough." The words are natural, but why people should be talking about the price of seats to Bernhardt at such a time is not easily understood.

"Accidents will happen." Bragson (at last winging a pheasant after missing right and left all day)—"Ah ha! Knocked him over that time, Jenkins." Keeper—"Yes, sir; they will fly into it sometimes!"—Punch.

A guest at a fashionable hotel took his seat at the dinner table, but no one appearing to wait upon him he remarked: "Have they any waiters in this hotel?" "Yes," responded a wag on the opposite side of the table; "the boarders are the waiters."

A lady wants to know why the railroad companies do not provide special cars for tobacco chewers as well as for smokers. Bless your innocent heart! Tobacco chewers are not so particular as that. An ordinary passenger car is good enough for them.—Boston Transcript.

Mr. John Bright seems to be discouraged with the state of agriculture in England, and the impenetrability of the farmers. "I have preached to farmers for nearly forty years," he says, "with but little result. American competition may speak to them and to our landlord class with more effect."

Mrs. Goff, the wife of the new secretary of the navy, is described as a remarkably beautiful and gentle lady. She was, before her marriage, Miss Despard, of Clarksburg, W. Va. The pair have two children—Guy, a handsome and intelligent boy of fourteen, and Percy, a bright, good-natured nine-year-old.

Three young fellows of Milwaukee heard that Gen. Garfield had been compelled to refuse his autograph, and one of them at a dinner offered to bet that he could obtain it. The bet was taken. The young man wrote to Garfield, saying that 1500 republican Norwegians congratulated him and the country on his victory. Gen. Garfield wrote a becoming reply.

Senator David Davis' political position is about the same as that of Birdofreedum Sawin, in the Biglow Papers: "I'm an Eclectic; ez to chusin Twixt this and thet I'm plaguey lowth. I leave a side that looks like losin', but while there's doubt I stick to both." Now that there's no longer any doubt as to which is the losing party the great Eclectic may be expected to get down on the republican side of the fence.

Leopold de Rothschild, one of the English house, has just been married with great state in London to Marie Perugia, a Hebrew lady of large wealth. The Prince of Wales presented a beautiful piece of silver and made the chief speech at the wedding breakfast, proposing in the most eulogistic fashion the healths of the bride and bridegroom. Mr. de Rothschild returned thanks, and then Lord Beaconsfield toasted the prince in terms of affection and devotion. The young bride made a charming innovation upon the prescribed wedding costume. Although her husband's gift to her was a collection of magnificent jewels, she wore none at all, either in her hair or elsewhere. The whole wedding party was remarkable for the absence of jewelry.

WINTER IN RUSSIA.

Customs of the People During the Cold Months—A Pleasant Season.

[From the Home Journal.]

The Russians have a great knack for making their winters pleasant. You feel nothing of the cold in those tightly built houses where all the doors and windows are double, and where the rooms are kept warm by big stoves hidden in the walls. There is no damp in a Russian house and the inmates may dress in doors in the lightest of garb, which contrast oddly with the mass of furs and wraps which they don when going out. A Russian can afford to run no risks of exposure when he leaves his house for a walk or drive. He covers his head and ears with a fur bonnet, his feet and legs with felt boots lined with wool or fur; which are drawn on over the ordinary boots and trousers, and reach up to the knees; he next cloaks himself in an ample topcoat, with fur collar, lining and cuff; and he buries his hands in a pair of fingerless gloves of seal or bear skin. Thus equipped, and with the collar of his coat raised all round so that it muffles him up to the eyes, the Russian exposes only his nose to the cold air; and he takes care frequently to give that organ a little rub to keep the circulation going. A stranger who is apt to forget that precaution, would often get his nose frozen if it were not for the courtesy of the Russians, who will always warn him if they see his nose "whitening," and will, unbidden, help him to chafe it vigorously with snow. In Russian cities walking is just possible for men during winter, but hardly so for ladies. The women of the lower orders wear knee boots; those of the shop-keeping classes seldom venture out at all; those of the aristocracy go out in sleighs. These sleighs are by no means pleasant vehicles for nervous people, for the Kalmuc coachmen drive them at such a terrific pace that they frequently capsize; but persons not destitute of pluck find their motion most enjoyable. It must be added that to be spilled out of a Russian sleigh is tantamount only to getting a rough tumble on a soft mattress, for the very thick furs in which the victim is sure to be wrapped will be enough to break the fall.

The houses and hovels of the Russian working classes are as well warmed as those of the aristocracy. A stove is always the principal item of furniture in them; and these contrivances are used to sleep on as well as to cook in. The mujick having no bed, curls himself up on his stove at his time for going to rest; sometimes he may be found creeping right into the stove and enjoying the delights of a good vapor bath. The amount of heat a Russian will stand is amazing, and his carelessness in facing the cold afterward not less so.

On a Saturday, which is washing-day all over Russia, you may see in any village a mujick who has been cooking himself in his stove, till he is of a color like boiled lobster, rush naked into the snow and roll himself in it like a dog, till he glows all over to his satisfaction. It seems monstrous that one of the Russian's principal protections against the cold—his beard—was laid under penalty by Peter the Great and subsequently by Elizabeth and Catherine II., when they were trying to civilize their subjects according to the customs of the west. These three sovereigns all laid a tax on beards; and peasants entering cities on market days were required to exhibit in proof that they had paid their tax, a brass coin stamped with a bearded face and the words "boroda lishnaia tiagota" (the beard tax has been settled). This absurd impost was abolished by Paul; but the effects of it still survive in a manner, for the beard is still considered "bad form" in aristocratic circles. Military officers wear only mustache and whiskers; diplomatists and other civil servants eschew the whiskers, and generally reap their faces altogether. A Russian with a beard is pretty sure to be either a "pope" or a member of one of the classes below the upper middle.

Gen. Grant as a Speculator.

[Washington Letter to Cincinnati Enquirer.]

If Gen. Grant gets this Philadelphia and New York money the donors ought to secure it so that he cannot use the principal in speculation. He is now understood to be a member of a firm which advances money on mining and other stocks, and put into it $50,000 cash, much of which he derived from the sale of his Long Branch residence. The attitude of congress on Grant has, therefore, been of no political advantage to them, and of no injury to him. It looks probable that he will have from his two funds $300,000 at least, which in addition to what he already possesses, ought to give him a clear income of $30,000 a year, even at 4 per cent., which is pretty good for "the broken down Belisarius," as he has been called. Grant is expected to go to Mexico in February, but his sons, who are also going there, say it is not sure he will accompany them.

Railroad and Other Stocks.

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—Oregon Navigation stock today reached $183, sold up to $184, with final sales at $182. It is ascertained, notwithstanding their denials, that Vanderbilt, Gould, Sage, and D. O. Mills had important conferences last week, and agreed to sustain and advance the prices of certain securities, including Gould and Vanderbilt's stock. Vanderbilt's friends believe that the general outlook for the new year is promising. Such a change is expected in the steel rail lines that henceforward America will be able to deliver grain and produce on the other side of the water much cheaper than it can be produced there.

Telegraph Officials before the New York Senate.

ALBANY, Feb. 5.—Dr. R. Green and other officers of the Western Union were before the senate committee to ward them against legislation adverse to the consolidation. They showed that the telegraph service here is better than in any other country on the globe, and is cheaper than any, except that of Canada. It was impossible to send a message from New York to Chicago for 25 cents, without a loss of money.

"Acoustics" and Orators.

[Albany Law Journal.]

By the way, after all the fuss made by assemblymen over the bad acoustic properties of the new assembly chamber, is it not a little remarkable that nobody had the slightest difficulty in hearing Gen. Grant there the other day, although he speaks very low? It seems to make all the difference in the world whether anything is being said worth listening to and that everybody cares to hear.

NEW YORK FREIGHTS AND MARKETS.

NEW YORK, Feb. 15.—There is no material change to note in the freight market, which keeps rather quiet on account of the difficulty of delivery by railroad companies, and, in some instances, freights have been delayed to that extent that it was too late for shipment by clipper and had to be sent overland. The Sea King barely finished loading to-day. Her cargo comprises in part 300 cases cider, 35 bales naval stores, 40 bbls resin, 40 bales tobacco, 265 bbls whisky, 3150 kegs nails, 550 cases canned goods, 330 bales hemp, 1038 kegs horse shoes, 50 boxes soap, 300 tons coal. The Centennial cleared to-day but will not finish for a day or two. Rates are firmly maintained at previous quotations. Tonnage is more plenty, arrivals having been free the past two days. Agents are really in want of vessels, but they do not seem to be anxious to meet the views of shipowners and are not offering $8 per ton dead weight capacity. The last charter was on a basis of $9 per ton. Steamer freights are very dull except for a lot of railroad freight, taken at a cut rate.

Markets are still rather quiet. Wheat is dull and easier under a light export demand. There were few continental shippers in the market but they could not do business.

Barley—Dull, unchanged.

Provisions—Dull; held higher except lard, which is active, 10 higher.

Rio Coffee—But moderately active, nominal.

Refined Sugar—Dull, firmer.

Hides—Unchanged.

Turpentine—Quiet, easier.

Petroleum—Higher and firm.

Raisins, prunes, currants—Very firm with very fair demand.

The Boston Wool Market.

BOSTON, Feb. 15.—Wool dull. The demand from manufacturers has been quite limited for some days past. Holders still appear to have confidence in the future of the market; but if manufacturers continue to hold back any length of time, there probably will be a break in prices. Ohio and Pennsylvania fleeces 45@46c for X and XX and 48@50 for No. 1. Michigan and Wisconsin fleeces 42½@43 for X; and 47@48 for medium combing and delaine fleeces, 44@47c for coarse, 48@50c for fine delaine, 50@54c for fine and medium combing. Unwashed fleeces have been selling at 19@22c for low and coarse, 25@36 for fine and medium. California wool quiet; 25@38 for spring, 18@30 for fall. Pulled wools are steady and have been selling at 33@52½c for common and choice supers, and 40@45c for X. In foreign fleeces very little has been done and prices are nominally the same. There is some inquiry for Montevideo wool, but at low prices. Choice lots of Australian are dull at 45@46c.

Wool Sales at London.

LONDON, Feb. 15.—The first series of colonial wool sales this year have opened. It will comprise 297,000 bales; 132,000 Port Phillip, 67,000 Sydney, 42,000 Adelaide, 39,000 Cape and 16,000 New Zealand. Forty-eight thousand bales sold to-night, principally Australian and Cape. The attendance was large and competition fair. The prices of these descriptions showed a decline of half a penny for greasy, and fully a penny for scoured, as compared with closing rates last series.

The Philadelphia Wool Market.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 15.—Wool—Demand improved; prices easier; Oregon fine, 30@33c; medium, 35@37; coarse, 30@32; New Mexican and Colorado, fine, 17@20; medium, 22@25; coarse carpet wool, 18@20; pulled extra merino, 35@40; super, 34@40 lambs' super, 35@40.

I know that persons who are unfortunate enough to be afflicted by any form of sexual disease have a delicacy in calling upon the proper physician in time, from a sense of modesty and sometimes from ignorance, and permit those diseases to exist until their constitutions become corrupted, their organization broken down and the hope of future happiness blighted, until death becomes a welcome messenger to carry them out of their miserable existence.

DR. SPINNEY,

No. 11 Kearny street, S. F.,

Treats all Chronic and Special Diseases.

YOUNG MEN

WHO MAY BE SUFFERING FROM THE EFFECTS of youthful follies or indiscretion, will do well to avail themselves of this, the greatest boon ever laid at the altar of suffering humanity. DR. SPINNEY will guarantee to forfeit $500 for every case of Seminal Weakness or private disease of any kind or character which he undertakes and fails to cure.

MIDDLE-AGED MEN.

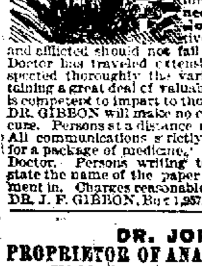

There are many at the age of thirty to sixty who are troubled with too frequent evacuations of the bladder, often accompanied by a slight smarting or burning sensation and a weakening of the system in a manner the patient cannot account for. On examining the urinary deposits a ropy sediment will often be found, and sometimes small particles of albumen will appear, or the color will be of a thin milkish hue, again changing to a dark and torpid appearance. There are many men who die of this difficulty, ignorant of the cause, which is the second stage of Seminal Weakness. Dr. S. will guarantee a perfect cure in all such cases, and a healthy restoration of the genito-urinary organs.

Office Hours—10 to 4 and 6 to 8. Sundays from 10 to 11 A. M. Consultation free. Thorough examination and advice, $5.

Call or address DR. SPINNEY & CO., No. 11 Kearny street, San Francisco, Cal.

P. S. For private diseases of short standing a full course of medicines, sufficient for a cure, with all instructions, will be sent to any address on receipt of $10.
